Swami Vivekanand's message to the youth of this nation was, "Arise and awake, do not be afraid, be strong and stand on your own feet, we must have muscles of iron and nerves of steel, what we need is man making education, what we need is man making religion. Whatever makes you weak physically, mentally and spiritually reject it as poison". This message of Swamiji is as relevant today as it was a hundred years ago. He has emphasized fearlessness and strength among the youth. However today a young student learns early in his career not how to be iron willed and strong but nervous and miserable due to fear and fever of examination. Examinations are not a recent phenomena. They have been there for centuries. Our ancestors were not a depressed lot for fear of exams. They took them in their stride. Then what has happened today? Why is it happening? It is mainly due to a great concentration on the result and fear of going down the list of merit.

We imagine a bleak and dark future if we don't make the grade. This fear creates panic among students. Swamiji's message in this regard was clear, "Do your duty but do not worry about the fruits of actions" let us follow this simple and straight truth and rid ourselves of examination phobia.

Youth is not an achievement, it is nature's gift to you, however, it is a great opportunity to develop qualities of head and heart. If this opportunity is missed whole life becomes a wasteland of misery and failure. Therefore let us value every, "Unforgiving minute" and make it a building block of our life and career. This is additionally possible under the kind guidance and encouragement of our chairman who is always there to encourage and promote budding talents of our school.
