The purpose of life is to live it, to taste experience to the utmost, to reach out eagerly and without fear for newer and richer experience.- Eleanor Roosevelt

Experience maketh a man. It is the experience of small things over the normal course of a day, that gradually enlightens the mind and nourishes it, thereby, making it stronger and wiser. The human mind has been accustomed to learning better when practical, hands-on experience is supplied. Man, from tender age, should be prepared for everything, he should be able to withstand even the most incomprehensible experience, as that would make him live in the real sense of the word, and he himself will sound the depths of his own being. It will lead to the evolution of his consciousness and erudition.

Apart from our school, Peshawar Model School for Boys (Pakistan) and Bal Bharati Public School, Dwarka participated. Art provides a medium for personal, spiritual and religious expression for cultures around the world. This conference provided a platform to students to enter into dialogue about the ways in which art is used as a form of expression in their communities, the value of these forms of expression and the extent to which such expression can be said to be free. They discussed about examples of the arts used to express themselves in a personal, spiritual or religious way. They referred to painting, sculpture, poetry, music, drama and calligraphy as various forms of art. Students talked about contribution made by Rabindranath Tagore and Raja Ravi Verma in the field of art. They even showed their calligraphy and quilling artwork to express the importance of art in their lives. They were given the opportunity to ask 'response questions' – to each other about the examples shared and their significance. The discussion would have been incomplete without 'poetry' as a form of art. They expressed how reading and writing poetry provides food to their soul making their lives vibrant and colourful. It was a pleasure to see the young learners engage themselves in a healthy discussion all by themselves. They came across new perspectives that helped them to deepen their thinking about this subject.
